The Beach Boys Tour Stops In On Toronto Fans

The 60's are back in more ways than one! Michael Love and his Beach Boys were welcomed by a full house of excited fans waiting for them at Massey Hall on Friday, August 10, 2001. All seats were filled. The amazing Micheal Love and his band once again were able to sell out another concert debut.

Fans really got their money's worth as the Beach Boys performed 32 songs over 107 minutes of nothing but good old Beach Boys Southern California fun. All that was missing was the sand.

Love and his Beach Boys really made a party of the night. As a matter of fact, Love's kids joined their dad on stage a few times during the concert. He danced with his little girl while his older son played the tambourine with the band.

What a party it was watching the Beach Boys perform live on stage especially seeing Micheal Love and his kids all having a grand time. Seeing the whole family on stage was something else. What a difference 40 years makes. Although love is approaching his sixties, he still looks terrific, especially dressed in an all white summer outfit accompanied by a black and orange baseball cap. He looked and acted like they were back in the 60's. Their vocals were absolutely awesome. The harmony and the lyrics sounded fabulous. Listening to them brought back those 60's memories to everyone in the house. It was definitely a nostalgic evening.

Considering a few of the original Beach Boys are no longer in the band, the sound has been emulated to a "T". This Toronto engagement was only 1 of a 160 city tour stop with shows in Europe, Canada and the U. S. before returning home to California. Look for their latest c.d. in the stores now.
