

J.P. Concert Review

An eye on entertainment-The ACC Rocks

Superstar, Bon Jovi, in town rocking the house down at the Air Canada Centre where he performed live to a packed house of screaming fans on Monday, November 27, 2000.

What a performer! Bon Jovi and band played and rocked the stage for two and a half hours with three ending encores. Dressed in a funky tight gold Hollywood rock-style outfit and with his hard rock voice, he literally drove the girls to ecstasy. Next to the Beatles screaming fan reception in '64, Bon Jovi's fans were just as loud, if not louder. The screaming reached ear-splitting level. His stage presence and style mixed with his band's hard rock sound made for a truly amazing show.

Even an hour after the concert, girls continued to flock and wait throughout the Air Canada Centre hoping to catch one extra glimpse of the Hollywood superstar dream boy, Bon Jovi.

J.P.'s final word, the overall concert was excellent. The sound and band made for a stellar performance. Bon Jovi's stage manner and dance moves were fabulous. Bottom line, he was sensational giving his fans their money's worth and more. On a scale of 1 to 10, this concert scored a definite 10.

Special thanks out to Bon Jovi and Universal Records, as well as all of the good people at the Air Canada Centre for doing an excellent job with the crowd. Transportation for J.P. provided by Hattz Limousine and Entertainment Services, North York, Ontario. Edited by Mary Ferrante. written by J.P. from JP Public Relations Inc.

© 2001 CelebrityExtras.com, a division of J.P. Public Relations Inc., Registered 1980. Toronto, Canada