

J.P. Concert Review

Rod Stewart live in concert

The classic and dashing rock and roll superstar legend Rod Stewart hit the Air Canada Centre stage in fine fashion last night.

On Wednesday August 01, 2001 the very cool and flamboyant style of Rod Stewart proudly entertained a packed house of screaming fans at the A.C.C.

It's amazing how people still after 25 years flock out to see Rod Stewart perform.

The blonde do you think I'm sexy boy looked fabulous. He came on stage at 8 21 PM. wearing a white sexy bomber jacket, solid black tight pants and black and white shoes. He looked like a million bucks. Right out of a Hollywood storybook. The man was fabulous.

Although Stewart has gone through some recent throat surgery, other than a 12 minute intermission break at mid point of his concert Stewart and his fabulous 16 piece band entertained for more than 2 and a half hours and performed 28 of his greatest hits.

In his first set he played some of his older tunes which included Maggie May, do you think I'm sexy? Hot Legs and many other memorable hits.

In his second set he came back on stage dressed in the reverse of his first set. A white shirt and black spotted white pants accompanied with a pair of solid white shoes. He and his band played all of his newest cuts from his new just released album. Look for it in stores now!!!

The sensational Rod Stewart now in his 50's still moved around the Air Canada Center stage like he was in his 20's. Despite Stewart's most recent throat surgery

Stewart still did a fabulous job. Got to hand it to him, Mr. Stewart still after 25 years has that look and style about him that no other artist can match. Fans still think Rod Stewart is as sexy and charismatic, as he was 25 years ago Stewart loves Toronto just as much as the fans love him that when he's in town one of his most favourite streets he likes to stop in on is Yorkville as he once again did the night after his concert.
