Rolling Stones Rock Air Canada Center

Mick Jagger and his bad boy look put on a sensational concert last night at the Air Canada Centre. February 2000

The Stones were one of the first bands to be booked into the Air Canada Center when it first opened.

The playboy look of Mick Jagger moved around the stage in his usual style. The flamboyant and sexy looking Mick Jagger was dressed in his Hollywood boy look. White pants and shoes along with a very colorful pink bomber jacket had the girls going absolutely insane.

The place was absolutely packed, filled right up to standing room only. Stones fans were paying up to $1500 a seat, scalpers were having a hay day! One scalper which wished to remain anonymous, indicated he was buying off other scalpers, he just could not get enough Stone tickets to meet the demands of die-hard fans.

The stones were awesome, they performed for more than 180 minutes of nothing but good old fashion stones rock n roll sound.

The mild manner Richards with a smoke hanging out of his mouth all night long was absolutely electric. Jagger with his stage moves and Richards with his guitar playing kept out doing one another while over 22000 screaming fans were just going ballistic.

The Stones were amazing and the fans were rocked all night long.

Jagger and The Stones tour was out to promote songs for their Black and White album. The stones played for more than 117 minutes of non stop entertainment. And performed over 30 of their greatest Stones hits.

Jagger loves playing in Toronto.

Closing remarks, the concert was fabulous!
