It's film festival time, it's the time when celebrities and Hollywood producers are in town promoting their work.

Last night Thursday September 12, 2000, 2 of the biggest stars in motion pictures visited one of Toronto's hottest night clubs. This is London.

This is London was only one of many clubs in Toronto who were holding a V.I.P film festival party.

The clubs film festival party had it all, the Hollywood image, the celebrities, executives, a gorgeous crowd, champagne, food, music and plenty of dancing.

There were hundreds of fans last night waiting outside this is London trying to catch a glimpse of Al Pacino and Steven Segal.

Unfortunately, the club was closed down to the general public, only a number of select people with V.I.P film festival guest passes were able to enter in the club.

The place was absolutely packed! Mr. Pacino and Steven Segal were both accompanied by their own security people. They arrived to the club by limousine at approximately 11:10 pm and left at 12:50 pm.

There were many other night clubs entertaining other film festival parties such as Rosewater, Casino lounge, the Government, Indian motorcycles and Berlins, were just a few of the places where celebrities stopped in on.

Closing remarks, the night was fabulous, right out of a Hollywood story tale. Hats off to the film festival people for a job well done for this years 2000 film festival festivities.

Closing credits

Special thanks go out to the film festival organizers, Mr. Pacino and Mr. Segal. Their public relations people, motion picture companies and their management team.

Special salute to this is London night club staff, the managers, hosts and door people, especially Athur, for all doing a fabulous job.
