presented by

This year's film festival was a bit dampened by the 911 tragedy in the sky in New York City. Although, the 2001 film festival parties prevailed they were understandably cut short. The stars usually are in town for a couple of weeks, however this time most of the superstars left after only a week.

The celebrities in town for the 2001 film festival parties consisted of such superstars as; Mick Jagger, Danny Devito, Ann Perkin, Micky Roarke and Kevin Kline were just a few of the celebrities in town.

However the biggest party in town was held by the film festival people at a downtown Toronto grand ballroom complex which accommodated over 5000 people. The organizers did an excellent job with the event.

There was strobe lights and music of all kinds in different sections of the centre. Ice cold beer and finger foods were free of charge and available throughout the facilities.

They were thousands of people that attended this years 2001 Film Festival party, especially, the hundreds of Hollywood wannabe's throughout the building just hoping to be discovered by anyone of the many film and record producers that were in the house.

If one ever was looking for the opportunity to be discovered this was the event of the year to be at.

The film festival party officially began at 9:30 pm and went on till 3 am. People in Toronto Even film festival tickets are more difficult to get. As a scalpers were standing out front selling film festival tickets for $125.00 per person and people were buying them up like hot cakes. None the less, it was quite the event!

really like to party. becoming more and matter of fact
